Updated Popup Prices in us

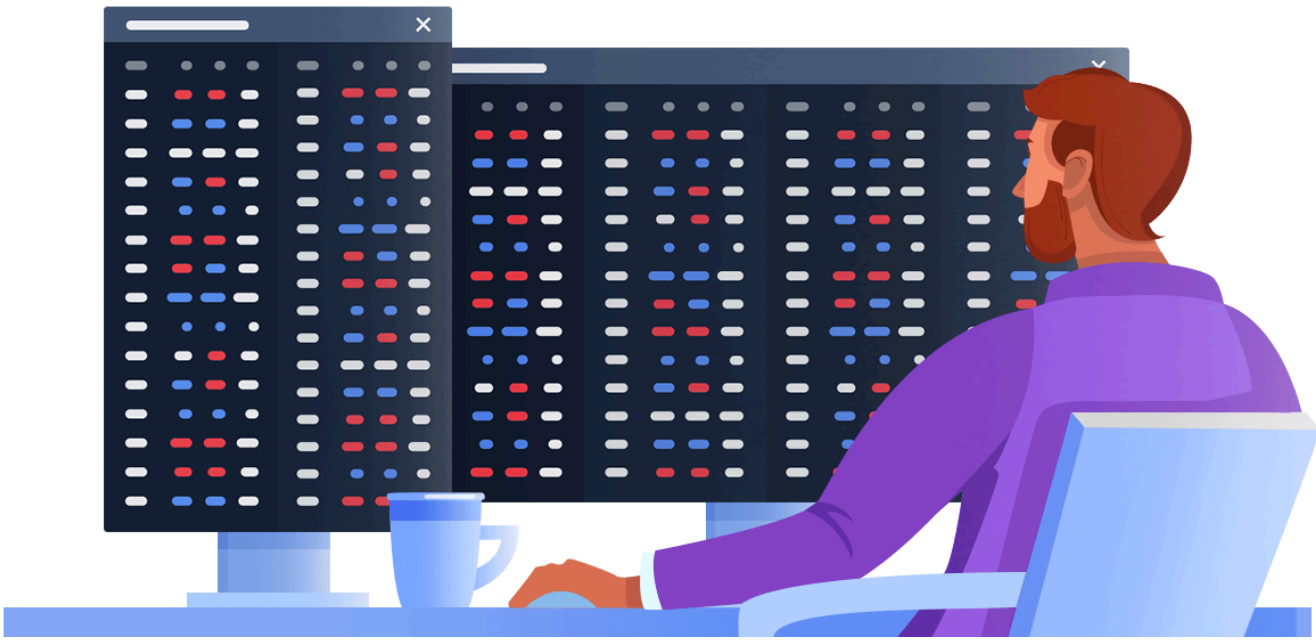
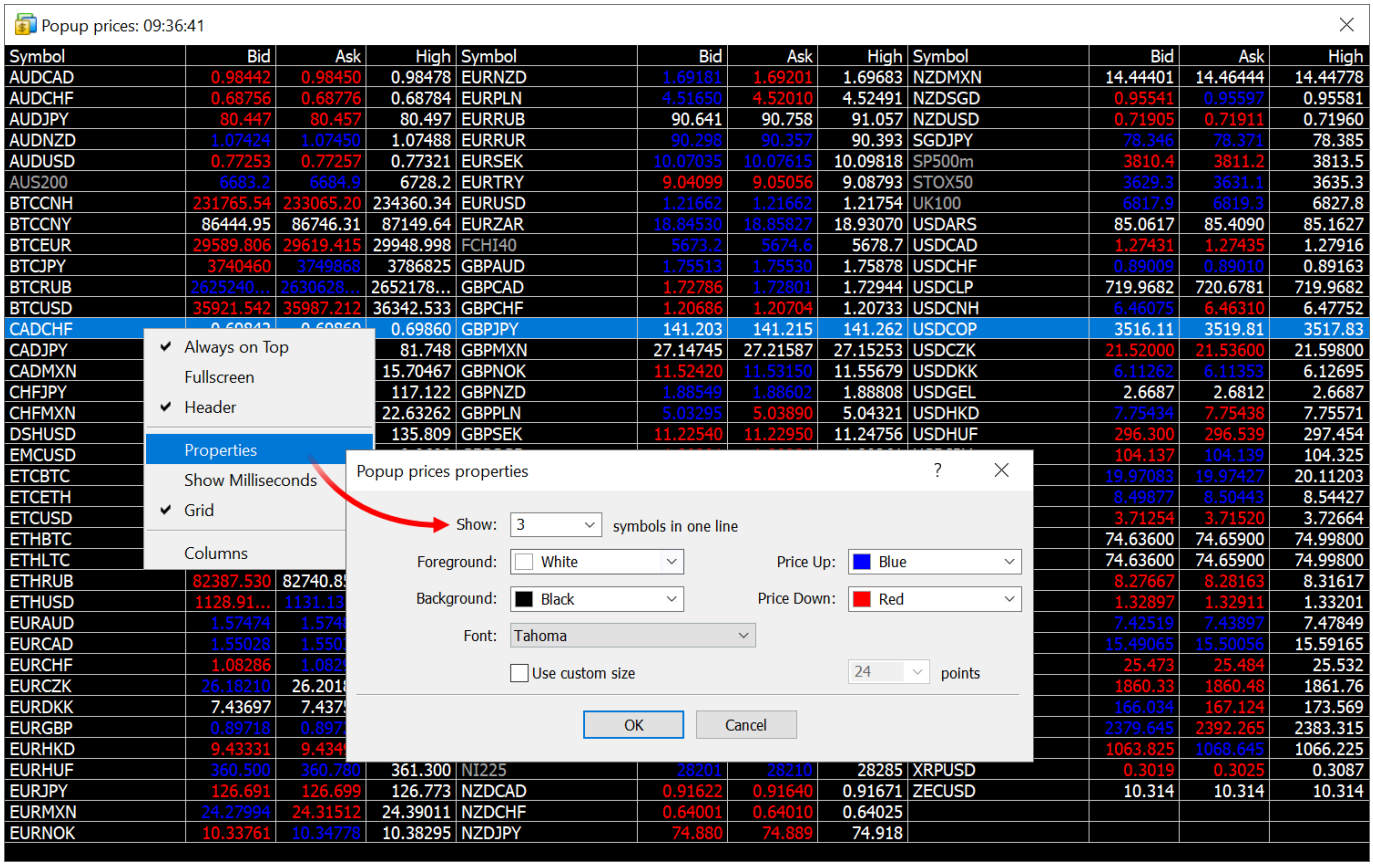
Customize the Popup Prices window in your platform: new section settings introduced in the latest build 2755 provide a more efficient workplace in Finsilica LTD .



The most important innovation concerns the ability to select the desired number of symbols in each table row. The previously used table, with a single symbol per row, provided less flexibility in positioning the window and offered limited navigation possibilities for those working with multiple currency pairs. Activate the Popup Prices context menu, select "Properties" and specify the required number of financial instruments. In addition to customizing the window view, this ensures the efficient use of the screen real estate.



In this build, we have expanded the set of columns which can be displayed in the Popup Prices table. Now, the menu features the same symbol properties which are available in Market Watch. The update provides enhanced flexibility in working with a large number of instruments: the section can operate efficiently even with a thousand open symbols. By hovering the mouse pointer over a symbol name, you can view a tooltip with brief information about the symbol, including its name, sector, settlement specifics and trading options. Also, this build provides a fix for color settings applied to rising and falling prices.

Finsilica LTD is a multi-asset platform for performing trading operations, conducting technical analysis, and accessing algorithmic or social trading facilities. It is an all-in-one platform for trading Forex, Stocks and Futures. Enjoy mobile trading from a smartphone and a tablet or use the web platform to work from any web browser on any device.

Additional built-in services further expand platform capabilities: purchase trading robots from the Market, order custom applications from Freelance developers, subscribe to signals from successful traders or rent a virtual platform for 24/7 operation.
